$10,000 PAID TO MINERS.

More Sales of Mineral Rights—A Bright Outlook all Along the Line.

W. G. Harris has returned from north Arkansas mineral field and will again devote his time to this territory.

W. S. Lowery, the mining expert, was in the city Monday. He reports everything moving along nicely in a mining way in his bailiwick.

A vote will be taken at the November election in Newport, Ky., on an issue of $90,000 electric light bonds.

An election has been ordered by the Mason county, Ky., fiscal court to vote on $25,000 of bonds for a new infirmary.

The city of Paducah has awarded a contract to Chas Robertson at $203.45 for the construction of a storm water sewer.

Bids are being received by the city clerk of Ashland, Ky., for $75,000 of 4 per cent. coupon refunding bonds.

T. D. Kingston has a wonderful gem—or pearl—which was found in Meade county, and which has two eyes, which give it a remarkable resemblance to a human face.

Last Saturday was a big pay day here. The Ky. Fluor Spar Co., the No. 5 Mine, and the Marion Mineral Co., all paid off their employees. Some ten or twelve thousand dollars were paid out.

A large kettle of quicksilver in the Texas exhibit at the St Louis Worlds Fair is constantly surrounded by a crowd of curious observers. A cannon ball floats in the liquid.

It is reported that M. B. Charles, of Humboldt, Tenn., is making arrangements to organize a new bank at McKenzie, Tenn., with $25,000 capital. Marion is one of boys and was formerly a merchant at Dyersburg.

The National Coal and Coke Co. who are operating mines at Uniontown, Ky., has transferred its main office from Indianapolis, Ind., to that city.

The work of improvement at the National Coal and Coke company's mine at Uniontown is near completion. After the work at the shaft is completed a track from the mine to the Ohio river will be built.

Our Gladstone correspondent says:

The Wilson mine has a four-inch vein of cannel coal, which is the only cannel coal we know of, and this is strictly number one coal, and the mine has experienced men running it.

Charles H. Ellis, of Calhoun, Ky., is reported to be organizing a bank at Morganfield, Ky., capital $25,000. John M. Crowe will, it is stated, be president, and Mr. Ellis the cashier. It will be a national bank, and is to begin business Nov. 1.

Wallingford's new bus is a beauty and is up to date in every particular. Dudley is the old, reliable transfer man and is always dependable. Mining men and the traveling public generally will not make any mistake if they patronize him.

The Crittenden Coal and Coke company of Marion, Ky., have lately made some very large contracts for the future delivery of their high grade coal. The output at the mine has been gradually increasing in tonnage until at the present time it is most satisfactory to the management.

State Geologist Norwood, of Kentucky, has been asked to examine a new vein of coal struck last week by accident by the Nortonville Coal Company in Hopkins county. Local reports say that the new vein is apparently of the anthracite order and that the indications are that it underlies the entire property of the Nortonville Coal Co.

The Giles Creek Mining Co. has been organized and articles of incorporation were filed here last Friday. The mines will be located at Giles Creek, four miles northeast of this city. The capital stock is $5,000 and may be increased to $20,000 if desired. The incorporators are Messrs. T. J. Tate, John T. Prowse, T. P. Cook, and W. T. Fowler. The purpose of the company is to mine for lead, zinc, fluor spar, and other minerals.—New Era.

Dr. H. Foster Bain and Mr. Foster Crider, of the U. S. Geological Survey, in company with Mr. F. Julius Fohs, spent several days in the field here last week. They visited a number of the principal mines, investigating the zinc deposits of the district, and studying the problems connected with their genesis, etc. From here, Dr. Bain and Mr. Crider go to examine the zinc deposits of the Kentucky river district. Mr. Fohs examined these deposits last April.

We were out at the Hegan mine near Lead Hill, on the first day of the week, and brought back a chunk or specimen richly loaded with fluorine, lead and silver. We found the Cave-in-Rock Mining company pushing things with a veritable rush, and further found that they were soon to have a young town of their own out there in machinery and storage buildings alone. They certainly have a wonderfully rich prospect in their acquired Barbour heirs claim.—Hardin Era.

Mine developing has become nowadays as much of a practical matter as building up a great commercial business. These days mines are made, developed. A promising prospect is located; prospect work is done, sufficient to demonstrate that a good body of pay ore exists; then work of development begins. This is not the work of a week, a month, or even a year oftentimes. The largest and best mines, it will be found, are the ones that have been most carefully prospected and developed before becoming dividend payers.—Ore News.

Our Emmaus correspondent writes:

Tom Meredith has let the Hedge mines out on contract and has taken a contract at the Tabb mines, where he will shortly begin work.

Our Carrolville correspondent writes:

With the last shipment of machinery the Schoolfield-Spees mines have in running trim two thousand dollars worth of machinery. There has been a good quantity of coal taken from the side shaft but work on this shaft has been abandoned for the present and work on the main shaft resumed. F. M. Abbot, an expert timberer, of Covington is now here and will remain for several weeks.

W. C. Jones of San Angelo, Texas, claims to have discovered the long lost Spanish silver mine which was said to have been worked about three quarters of a century ago by Spanish monks. The mine is located among the bluffs on Celery creek, which flows into the San Saba river. Mr. Jones claims that the mine was hidden by the monks when they were obliged to abandon it, changing the course of the creek so it ran over the opening. Mr. Jones gives the credit for the discovery to his partner, Joe Cluff. They expect to make their fortunes by working the mine.

Our New Salem correspondent writes:

Kay Kevil, of Marion, was in this section the past week doing some surveying for some mining men.

Some good sales of mining property the past week; Sam Grimes, we understand, sold his mineral for a neat little sum; this property joins the famous Cullen mines.

We have some of the best mining property around New Salem anywhere in the mineral belt and some time it will be sold, when the price asked is paid, and it will not be long.

The clay hauling is in full blast. How men can haul 2000 pounds 12 miles for $1.50 we fail to see; $2 per ton was low enough; live and let live is our motto.

The New Mexico School of Mines at Socorro has recently added to its equipment for practical training in mining operations the Torrenco gold and silver mine, situated in the Socorro mountains, two miles from the college campus. The Torrenco district has made a good record, which is as yet very far from completed. Nearly one million dollars has been taken out of the New Mexico School of Mines has endeavored to furnish adequate facilities for students to acquire a detailed knowledge of practical mining by acquiring the above named property, where instruction may be given in accordance with the most advanced ideas.

The first attempt ever made to establish a practical mining laboratory in any educational institution by incorporating an actual working mine, is believed to be that begun in the New Mexico School of Mines.

The future outlook for spar may be difficult to gauge if merely superficial indications are considered, but an encouraging feature is the fact that we are gradually drawing nearer to a revival of business, and the foundation is being laid for great industrial progress. Production of spar is pointed at as large, and it is on an impressive scale, but its growth is restricted by the measure of its capacity. It can not be increased over night, nor in a month, and not even with in a year beyond a fixed limit. Consumption does not develop within such accurate and closely defined limits, and under the impetus of certain conditions it may increase in certain localities to leaps and bounds. The trend of events points to greater consumption and the situation will feel the effects of this next year perhaps, more than it does [this]. Exports may be viewed as an indication of European consumption if not identical with it. If foreign demand holds at present height and domestic consumption increases, the market movement may surprise the trade. While this country is getting ready for better business the objective point to watch is the export movement.

Superintendent Public Works
Of Lexington, Ky., Says:

"Peruna is an Excellent Medicine."

J. H. Hipplegate, Supt. of Public Works, 61 West 6th St., Lexington, Ky., writes:

"I find that Peruna is an excellent medicine especially for catarrhal affections and all diseases leading to consumption, bronchial troubles or stomach troubles. It also acts as a preventative and keeps the system in a healthy condition so that it easily throws off disease. It is an excellent tonic and a great appetizer and as a large number of those who have been using it speak very highly of its curative powers, I am satisfied that my opinion of it is correct, and that it is deserving of high praise." —J. H. Hipplegate.

Peruna is the remedy for catarrh. Almost everybody knows that by hearsay and thousands know it by experience.

Catarrh in its various forms is rapidly becoming a national curse. An undoubted remedy has been discovered by Dr. Hartman. This remedy has been thoroughly tested during the past forty years. Peruna cures catarrh in all phases and stages. There is no remedy that can be substituted.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY!

William E. Neal Kills His Wife
And then Kills Himself.

Louisville Times: Wm. E. Neal under indictment in the Jefferson circuit court for the murder of former Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney James K. Shrader, for alleged criminal intimacy with his wife, shot a woman with whom he was living and killed himself, in his apartments in the boarding house of Mrs J. G. Baird, at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Merritt O'Neal, who was one of the attorneys for W. E. Neal, positively identified the woman as Mrs Neal, on whose account Neal killed Shrader.

The couple had been quarreling previous to the shooting, and immediately preceding the fatal shots the woman was heard to run from the room screaming and slam the door. She ran back to her room and again slammed the door after her. The man was following, and as he burst into the room he fired a shot which penetrated her heart. Then he walked to a couch and, lying down, directed a bullet through his own heart.

The dead man left no note or paper of any kind that would throw any light upon the tragedy. A reporter for the Times was the first to identify the man as Neal. The only note of any kind found on Neal's person was addressed to himself and was written by W. W. Burt, a collector for the Fidelity Trust and Safety Vault company. The note asked for a meeting with Neal, and suggested the time and place.

Neal was admitted on bail about six weeks ago after much difficulty in securing bond.

That today's tragedy is the direct result of the Shrader tragedy there can be no question.

Occupants of the house were apprised of the tragedy first by the woman's screams, later followed by the two shots; fired in quick succession. The members of Mrs Baird's family rushed upstairs but were afraid to enter the room and returned to the first floor to secure assistance.

F. E. Montgomery, of Seventh street and Broadway, answered the summons and entered the room. The murdered woman, stretched full length on the floor with the blood streaming from a wound in her breast, was just behind the door. Neal was lying on a couch at the other side of the room, between the windows. His head was turned slightly to the left, as though he was looking through the window when the fatal shot was fired.

The couple came to the residence of Mrs Baird Sunday afternoon and engaged a room for two days, paying $4 therefor. Neal gave the name of Mr. Johnson. He said the woman was his wife, and that their home was in Nashville. Mrs Baird states that the woman met her on the stairway and told her she was going to her home in Nashville to remain three weeks, while her husband completed his business in Louisville. She told Mrs Baird she had to go out and make some purchases, and did so, remaining uptown about an hour. This was the last ever seen of her alive.

POISONED WATERMELON,

Liberty, Ind., Sept 9.—A boy is a corpse and his father and mother lie at the point of death as the result of eating a watermelon which it is supposed contained poison.

The dead boy is Ross Blas, the seven-year-old son of Mr and Mrs Allice Blas, who live near this place. The parents, it is feared, will die.

The melon was purchased here by Mr Blas. It had been shipped from a distance. Immediately after eating it father, mother and son became violently ill, and the boy died a short time later.

Whether the melon was deliberately poisoned or the poison was the result of fermentation or decay, has not been definitely ascertained. It is into this question that the coroner will delve when he holds an inquest.

Sour Stomach,

Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let five hours elapse between meals, and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the sour stomach may be avoided. PANAMA CANAL.

"They tell us that the President does things. That expression would do credit to the Bowery. I believe in doing things, but I believe that if we acquire the bond for a canal we should acquire it honestly. I believe that our good name as a nation is worth more to us than all the ships that will ever pass through the Panama Canal. I believe in the interoceanic canal and voted for the measure that President Roosevelt approved, but it was for the right to construct the canal without overawing and coercing a weaker nation."—From Senator Bailey's speech.

What's In a Name?

Everything is in a name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for piles, blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases. DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by Woods & Orme, Druggists.

Republican Prosperity.

Representative John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, in a recent speech, declared that the contention of the Republican party that it was responsible for the prosperity which has attended the labors of American farmers, in recent years, reminded him of a story told by Abraham Lincoln.

Mr Lincoln said there was a woodpecker away up in the top of a tree pecking, and pecking, and pecking at the tree and after awhile a windstorm came along and blew down the tree and the woodpecker, and the woodpecker believed to its dying day that it had pecked the tree down.

Taking a Drive,

A young man, about nineteen years old, ran off yesterday afternoon with a horse and buggy belonging to Howard Bros. and had not been located at a late hour last night. The young man, whose name could not be learned, has been loafing around the streets several days past.

About three days ago he was taken sick and went to the Sanitarium.

Yesterday, however, he was able to be out and came down town.

He met Lawyer J. Steve Powell and requested that he should write to his home, which, he stated, is in Edmonson county, to his relatives and ask them to send him money enough to reach home. Mr Powell complied with his request, but in the meantime this unknown hired a horse and buggy from Howard Bros. "just to drive around the streets awhile," he said, until his money arrived.

But neither he, buggy nor horse, has been heard of since.

The authorities of the neighboring towns were notified of the theft and asked to keep on the lookout.—Henderson Gleaner.

Catches the Kids,

Chicago, Sept 7.—A strike of upwards of 200 school children was declared at the Longfellow school today, because the principal had been transferred since the close of the last term. The children say they will not go to school until he comes back.

Later the little "strikers" decided to go back to the school and submit to the rule of the new principal. The end of the strike followed a conference between the mothers of several of the dissatisfied pupils and the new principal.

A WORLD POWER.

"Ours is a world power, and as such it must be maintained, but I deny that it is at all recently that the United States has attained that eminence. Our country became a world power over a century ago, when, having thrown off foreign dominion, the people established a free government, the source of whose authority sprung and was continuously to proceed, from the will of the people themselves. It grew as a world power as its sturdy citizens, to whose natural increase were added immigrants from the old world, seeking to obtain here the liberty and prosperity denied them in their own countries, spread over the face of the land, reduced the prairies and forests to cultivation, built cities, constructed highways, constructed railroads, until now a nation which at the formation of the government numbered only three millions in population has become eighty millions, and from ocean to ocean and the lakes to the gulf the country is the abode of a free and prosperous people, advanced in the highest degree in the learning and arts of civilization. It is the liberty, the advancement and the prosperity of its citizens, not any cause of conquest, that make the country a world power. This condition we owe to the bounty of Providence, unfolded in the great natural resources of the country, in the wisdom of our fathers, manifested in the form of government established by them, to the energy, industry, moral character, and law abiding spirit of the people themselves.—Judge Parker's speech of acceptance.

A Power For Good.

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Philpot, of Albany, Ga., says: "During a bilious attack I took one. Small as it was it did me more good than calomel, blue mass or any other pill I ever took and at the same time the effect was pleasant. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill." Sold by Woods & Orme, Druggists.

DEATH OF M. H. JOGOE,

Cadiz, Ky., Sept 7.—Typhoid fever caused the death last night of M. H. Jogo, one of this country's leading citizens, and most successful business men. He was 48 years of age and a member of the Methodist church. He came to this place from Madisonville twenty years ago, and by his industry has built up a large business. A widow and eight children survive him.

Miss Nancy Lee Jogo, his eldest daughter, whose engagement to Prof N. W. Bridges, of Lewisport, Tenn., was recently announced, is very low from fever.

Emergency Medicines.

It is a great convenience to have at hand reliable remedies for use in cases of accident and for slight injuries and ailments. A good liniment and one that is fast becoming a favorite if not a household necessity is Chamberlain's Pain Balm. By applying it promptly to a cut, bruise or burn it allays the pain and causes the injury to heal in about one-third the time usually required, and as it is an antiseptic it prevents any danger of blood poisoning. When Pain Balm is kept at hand a sprain may be treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a quick recovery. For sale by Woods & Orme, Druggists.

COSTLY PIECE OF AMBER.

"This pipe," said the dealer, "is worth $75."

"Why so much?"

"On account of that bug in the amber mouthpiece."

"By jingo!" said the patron, according to the New York World, and he looked at the pipe carefully. "By jingo, that's a strange bug. How did it get there?"

"It got there," said the dealer, "as a fly got in fly paper. This beautiful, clear, hard amber was once a gum that a certain tree distilled. Millions and millions of years ago it stuck, soft and sweet smelling, to a tree's bark. At that time a great part of England had not yet emerged from the ocean. The world was a tropical world, hot and swampy and steamy. Giant ferns grew at the rate of 20 or 30 feet in a night."

"Well, it was in those days that amber was distilled. On its trees it glittered in the sun, as pleasant to the eye and to the nostril as a rose, and the insect of that time would alight on it, it would hold them fast; they would perish. The amber would preserve them."

"Amber containing insects is found now and then, and it is valuable to scientists, for they may study it in an insect life that is extinct. For a million years no fly has existed that is like the fly preserved in the mouthpiece of this pipe."

A Unique Decision.

New York, Sept 8.—Magistrate Pool has laid down a unique ruling in cases of saloon brawls. Two negroes were brought before him, one having charged the other with disorderly conduct and trying to hit the plaintiff with a razor.

The fight occurred in a saloon, where the negroes had been drinking together. When this was made known the magistrate ruled that "a man can not be disorderly in a saloon," and dismissed the case.

WAGES AND THE TARIFF.

Great interest has been manifested throughout the country in an extremely able dissertation of the relation between the Protective Tariff and the wages of labor made by Mr. Isaac W. Griscom of Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. Griscom maintains that "the allegation that either the general wage rate of the nation or the productive power of the wage is increased by any conceivable power of taxation is absurd. The idea that the wealth produced by the labor of the nation can be increased by taxation of American consumers is simply preposterous."

Kills Herself.

Poughkeepsie, Sept 8.—Mrs H. F. Remmers, en route from Danforth Ill. to Germany with her husband, jumped from a New York Central express train today eight miles north of this city and was killed. The coroner says the woman committed suicide. Her husband said she had been acting strangely for several days. The body was carried to this city. She was nearly 80 years old.

More Riots.

Disturbances of strikers are not nearly as grave as an individual disorder of the system. Overwork, loss of sleep, nervous tension will be followed by ultimate collapse, unless a reliable remedy is immediately employed. There's nothing so efficient to cure disorders of the Liver or Kidneys as Electric Bitters. It's a wonderful tonic, and effective nerve and the greatest all around medicine for run down systems. It dispels Nervousness, Rheumatism and Neuralgia and expels Malaria germs. Only 50c, and satisfaction guaranteed by Woods & Orme Druggists.

"STAND PAT" THEORY.

Apropos of the Republican command to "stand pat," Democrats are quoting with approbation the striking summing up of the situation which Representative John Sharp Williams addressed to the Republican majority in Congress just before that body adjourned in the spring. Mr. Williams said:

"Why are you afraid to tell us and the country what you want to do? Why are you afraid to tell the American people how or on what principle you want to revise the tariff? Why are you afraid to tell them to what extent you will revise it? Why do you not explain the phrase 'stand pat'? 'Stand pat' how long? And how far up to the limit and beyond the limit or where? What in the world is the reason that the tariff cannot be revised by its friends' now? Is there a single one of you, over there, that is not its friend?"

It Saved His Leg.

P. A. Danford of LaGrange, Ga., suffered for six months with a frightful running sore on his leg; but writes that Bucklin's Arnica Salve wholly cured it in five days. For Ulcers, Wounds, Piles, it's the best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25cts. Sold by Woods & Orme, druggists.

Believes Roosevelt Dangerous.

"If I were to select a soldier I would choose the President before any man in public life. If I were to choose a statesman I would select almost any man in public life before the President. As a soldier leading a forlorn charge he would be magnificent. As a statesman administering the affairs of the nation he would be dangerous." — Senator Bailey in his Brooklyn speech.

Salvation of Democracy.

Dunkirk, N. Y., Sept 9.—This was Democratic Day at the Chautauqua County Fair. Prof Duncan McGregor, of Pittsburg, was the principal speaker. In closing he said:

"I firmly believe that unless the principles of Democracy which gave her birth are allowed to exercise their God-given functions in this Government, imperialism in time will hurl our Goddess of Liberty from her throne."

8 Cents

Eight cents a pound is what a young woman paid for twelve pounds of flesh.

She was thin and weak and paid one dollar for a bottle of Scott's Emulsion, and by taking regular doses had gained twelve pounds in weight before the bottle was finished.

Eight cents a pound is cheap for such valuable material. Some pay more, some less, some get nothing for their money. You get your money's worth when you buy Scott's Emulsion.

We will send you a little free.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President,
JUDGE ALTON B. PARKER,
Of New York.

For Vice-President,
HON. HENRY G. DAVIS,
Of West Virginia.

For Congress,
OLLIE M. JAMES.

The two armies in Manchuria,—the Russian and Japanese—are now resting, but it is stated that Gen Kuroki is about to resume active operations against Kuropatkin, and will endeavor to crush him before he can concentrate his scattered forces. Meantime the Emperor of Russia declares that so long as a Russian soldier stands alive, or a golden rouble is in the national treasury he will fight the Japanese.

Gov. Beckham seems slow to move apace the calling of an extra session of the Legislature. With more than two-thirds of the members of the present Legislature having already expressed their convictions that a new site for the State capitol ought to be chosen, and a large majority of the people of the State evidently in favor of that move, it would seem that the Governor should not hesitate in the matter, unless he has some more cogent reason for not doing so than have yet appeared on the surface. A million dollar building jammed onto the little old eight by ten state house yard would look like thirty cent gone to seed.

A friend of the PRESS asks: "Why is our people are so nearly unanimous in favoring the Japanese in their fight with the Russians?" We suspect the real reason is that at the beginning of the war every one not posted regarded the Jap as the little dog and the Russian as the big bear; and hence our sympathies went out to the little dog. But that sympathy appears to have been wasted, as the Japs seem fully able to take care of themselves. Another reason is that Russia had no business in Manchuria, anyway. She got two other powers to help her run the Japs out of Manchuria, after they had fairly conquered it and then stole in like thief and occupied the country, without a shadow of right, either human or divine; and it does seem that whereas they sowed the wind they are now reaping the whirlwind. And serves them right, too.

A THING OF BEAUTY."

W. D. Wallingford, our popular liveryman, believes in being up with current events, and in view of the rapid growth, both in numbers and commercial importance, of our city, he decided that old "Black Maria" should be relegated to the boneyard and something more in accordance with the eternal fitness of things placed on the boards. The result of this line of thought is a really gorgeous affair in the shape of a city omnibus, artistically embellished with paint and gilding, elegantly upholstered and perfectly appointed—a thing of beauty and a perpetual joy. Dudley is a warm personal friend of the Japanese General, Kuroki—in fact the two used to play marbles together when they were little boys—and after the old Japanese General gets through thrashing the Russians, Dudley intends inviting the general offer.

HEALY H. COCHRAN

Stricken with Typhoid Fever, Passes Away.

No greater or more general sorrow has ever been felt in Marion than that occasion by the death Saturday night of Healy Cochran. To say that he was universally loved does but express the sentiment felt toward him, for he held a warm place in many hearts and numbered his friends by the score.

Healy Haynes Cochran was born at Crittenden Springs, in the old hotel, Nov. 24, 1882, and died Sept. 10, 1901, in his twenty-second year. He lived in Marion all his life excepting nine years that the family resided in Illinois, they having moved to this city soon after his birth and lived here all the time excepting as stated above.

Healy was a Christian and joined the Methodist church at this place a year ago when the protracted meeting was in progress. His kindness and devotion to his widowed mother was one of his chief traits of character and it is said that since the death of his father he has never left his mother alone at night, looking first to her comfort, regardless of all social obligations. As business man and the partner of S. R. Adams in the machine shop, he was always affable and jovial. Indeed it was a pleasure to have him around. The work was never so hard but what Healy was happy.

His loss is irreparable to his loved ones at home but he who doeth all things well will, we trust, heal the wounded and broken hearts, and teach them to bow in humble submission to His will.

The funeral Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock was conducted by Rev. T. V. Joiner, whose remarks were most appropriate and feelingly delivered. The Methodist church and adjoining yards and the streets were all crowded, the attendance was estimated to be the largest ever seen on any similar occasion in Marion.

The remains were laid to rest in the new cemetery Sunday afternoon. The ceremonies were under the direction of Blackwell P. of which he lugs were numerous and beautiful.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas God, in his infinite wisdom has taken from us our dear friend and brother, Healy H. Cochran; therefore be it resolved:

1st. That in his death the members of our order are shocked and saddened at the thought of such irreparable loss to the community, the church, and to our beloved order, of which he was a true and loyal member, and one whom we could ill afford to lose.

2d. That there is left a void in his home, his Sunday school, his church and in his lodge which can not be filled.

3rd. That it is hard to realize that he has been taken from us, yet, while his mortal body has died, his clean, pure, lofty spirit lives and will live forever more.

4th. That we tender his bereaved relatives and friends our sincere sympathy, for we, too, are sorely afflicted, and realizing how entirely inadequate words of sympathy are to comfort broken hearts we commend them to the love and care of our heavenly Father.

5th. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to his family, and that they also be published in both the Crittenden Press and Crittenden Record, and spread upon the minute book of our Lodge.

JAMES HITCHCOCK DEAD

James Hitchcock, one of the oldest citizens of this county, died at the home of George Howell, a few miles north of town, Friday of a complication of diseases incident to old age. He had been in feeble health for more than a year.

Mr. Hitchcock was ninety odd years of age and had been a resident of this county for many years. He was one of the pioneer school teachers of the county, having followed that profession until forced out by old age and the advancement of the more modern methods of instruction. He was never married.

A GOOD CATCH.

A paper published in Tokyo, Japan, contains the following curious matrimonial "ad."

"I am a beautiful woman. My beautiful undulating hair envelopes me as a cloud. Supple as a willow is my waist. Soft and brilliant is my visage as the satin of the flowers. I am endowed with wealth sufficient to saunter through life, hand in hand with my beloved. Were I to meet a gracious lord, kindly, intelligent, well educated and of good taste, I would unite myself with him for life, and later share with him the pleasure of being laid to rest eternal in a tomb of pink marble."

MARRIED IN SHAWNEETOWN.

Mr. Walter S. Hutchens, of this city, and Miss May Hale, of Uniontown, were united in marriage Sunday morning at Shawneetown, Ill., in the office of the county clerk, Justice of the Peace W. A. Howell performing the ceremony. The parents of the young lady objected to Mr. Hutchens and, as is usually the case under such circumstances they resolved to have their way in defiance of parental restraint. In order to carry out this resolve Mr. Hutchens left this city Saturday afternoon for Uniontown, arriving in that city after dark. In the company of a friend Miss Hale attended church during an evening service and was met there by Mr. Hutchens. Everything seemed auspicious and, after talking the matter over, the two decided to put their resolve into immediate execution. Procuring a carriage they started for Shawneetown, and meeting with no serious obstacle, they reached that city in due time.

The bride is a handsome young lady and is quite popular in her city. The bridegroom came from Henderson to this city a few months ago, is a printer by profession, having a good position in this office.

The PRESS extends congratulations.

SENTENCED TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

The Marshall of Elizabethtown, Ill., who killed John Dewey last winter was sentenced to the penitentiary twenty-five years. The evidence showed that it was an unprovoked murder. After the jury was secured and the Commonwealth stated what it would prove, the defendant plead guilty and threw himself on the mercy of the court. The jury was then dismissed and the judge decided the case as stated above.

Struck by Lightning.

During the thunder storm Tuesday evening lightning struck the new residence of Tom Wring on West Depot street, making a hole in the roof and otherwise damaging the building.

The building was just completed but was unoccupied. Mr. Wring had been thinking of moving in Tuesday but from some cause did not do so, which perhaps saved the lives of the family.

Dark Days and Bright.

A STORY IN VERSE.

Written for THE PRESS by Robert C. Haynes.

1, bright days of June had come,
Flowers were all a-bloom.
Birds sang among the trees,
But I was wrapped in gloom.

With mournful steps I left the house,
Walked slowly through the gate,
Then down the lane I took my way,
Heedless as to my fate.

Down hill and up, by field and wood,
I took my mournful way,
Not caring where my footsteps led,
Or I perchance might stray.

Not knowing why—perhaps 'twas fate—I reach'd a spot and took
A seat upon a rustic bench,
Down in a shady nook.

'Twas here that I had often sat
With Bertrine by my side—
Sweet Bertrine, whom I loved and hop'd
That she might be my bride.

The days had seem'd so bright and short,
So full of hope and life;
But all had chang'd, and Bertrine soon
Would be another's wife.

I could not blame Bertrine or th',
For jolly Joe Maghure
Was young and popular and rich,
I, thirty-five and poor.

"And yet," I mused, "how hard it is
To give her up to Joe,
My sweet Bertrine!—more dear than life!
And yet it must be so."

"I'm left, and that's the truth of it.
One thing, I will not stay
To see them wed—I'll hie me off—
Just take myself away.

I'll board a train and disappear—
A balm for such mishaps—
And if Port Arthur does not fall,
I'll go and help the Japs!"

My musings here were broken off;
Some one was coming ne'er—
The soft tones of a merry voice
Distinctly I could hear.

I looked around, and down the hill,
Emerging from between
The thick boughs that o'erhung the path
Above me was—Bertrine!

More charming too, she seem'd to me,
And as she tripped along,
Unconscious of my presence there
She hummed a fav'rite song.

Some how I could not let her pass
Without one word, and so
As she was passing near my seat,
I gruffly cried, "Hello!"

I soon regretted what I did;
For Bertrine gazed with fear
This way and that, then, turning back,
Fled like frightened deer!

"Bertrine!" I cried, a bounding sp;
"Bertrine! 'tis only I,
And not a ghost or highwayman.
And so why need you hie?"

"Tom Muggleby! You mean old thing!"
She panted, out of breath;
"Oh, my! That grave-yard voice of yours
It frightened me to death!"

"I'm sure I meant not to affright,
And I your pardon crave;
Temptation, too, was very strong,
Besides, I thought you brave—"

"Yes, brave like Thomas Muggleby,
Who's brave enough for two;
But you are five-and-thirty, Tom,
When I'm as old as you—"

"Oh, don't predict so far ahead,"
Said I; "what is to be—
But, Bertrine, don't stand up like that,
Come share this seat with me."

DIVIDED DRINKS,

People on South Third street witnessed a funny incident the other day, says the Paducah Sun.

An old man and his wife, who seemed to be from the country, shambled along and peered into each doorway until they came to a saloon. The old man ducked inside and the old lady drew herself close to the screen doors that obscured the bar. Presently he emerged with a glass of beer.

He took a sip and handed it to her and she took one. They stood there in the doorway in full view of passers by and drink their beer out of the same glass.

When they got to the foam the thirst did not seem to be slake and the old fellow called for a glass of ice water.

The indulgent bartender took them one of the large size, well supplied with cracked ice, and after they had drink that as they did the beer, they took turns about taking the ice out and eating it. They crunched on it until the last piece was gone, and leaving them—

Little Jim Bear

"No, thank you, I've no time to sit or talk, for I must mail this letter—it's important," too. It would not do to fail."

She held the letter in her hand, As if in triumph, so I read the dainty penmanship. It was addressed to Joe.

"You've twenty minutes yet," I said, "Ten would be sufficient to put Joe's letter in the mail, And that leaves ten to me."

She hesitated, and I said, "Bertrine, oft in the past, We've sat and talked together here, And this will be our last."

She took the seat then, as of old; Those days when all was well— Ere Joe had come across my path And beat me—truth to tell!

But still, somehow, I could not talk: Besides, what could I say? For Bertrine was another's now, And I was left for aye!

We sat there, and the birds o'erhead Were merry as could be; We sat there, not a word said I, And not a word spoke she.

The flowers, with their sweet perfume, Grew round us everywhere; She pluck'd one, and its petals fell Around her, here and there.

The tender shrubs, with leaflets green, Stood proudly all around; I slashed one with my walking-cane, And beat it to the ground.

"Bertrine," I said at last, "Bertrine," A pang went to my heart—

"Ten minutes have expired, and so 'Tis time you should depart."

She looked at me as if perplex'd, But answered not a word; She sat, still fumbling with the flowers, As if she had not heard.

More dear she seem'd than all the world, As she sat by my side— Sweet Bertrine! who would leave me soon To be another's bride.

"You've just five minutes left," I said; "Had you not better go? For you must hasten if you would mail Your letter—its for Joe—"

"You seem quite interested, Tom, In my—your good friend Joe My presence seems to weary you," She said. "Of course I'll go."

"Bertrine, why talk that way?" I said; "You'd never weary me, If you should never leave my side, Joe's letter, tho', you see—"

"My letter—Oh, I'd quite forgot." She rose, replaced her hat, Then, handing me the envelope, Said, with a blush, "Read that."

I stared, but took it from her hand, Read, placed each page apart, Then tore the whole thing into shreds And clasp'd her to my heart!

"You silly, silly boy," she said; "You thought I'd marry Joe?"

"Tis you, Tom, only you I love— So there now, let me go."

We took our way back t'ward the house. The flowers were still a-bloom, And birds were singing in the trees, But I knew no more gloom.

On, hand in hand, by field and wood, We took our way, and tho' My happiness was now complete, I dropp'd a sigh for Joe.

JIM READ THE SIGN.

he came to a great field, in the center of which was a sign, and it read: "Notice! No bear hunting!"

"Ah, ha!" said Jim. "This is the place for me. I shall be safe here." And then he curled himself up and lay down to sleep. I do not know whether he slept an hour, a day or a week, but when he awoke the barking of dogs could be heard on every side, and Jim, raising his head, saw hunters coming rapidly in his direction.

"See here!" cried Jim. "Can't you read? Look at that sign over there, 'No bear hunting'?"

And what do you suppose Jim got for an answer?

Why, one of the hunters raised his rifle to his shoulder and sent a bullet through the little bear's heart. And Jim did not have a chance to think how foolish he had been to disobey his parents and leave his home. That is the sad tale of little Jim Bear.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

What Greedy Got

Greedy was a strange creature. In the first place he was the only one of thirteen eggs that old Mrs. Speckle was able to hatch.

To say he was ugly would be but poorly to express it.

His head was like a duck, for he was at first a duck's egg. But his tail was wonderfully like Mrs. Speckle's. His feet were like paddles on a steamboat, and his appetite was enormous. His poor mother did so much scratching in the garden to satisfy his greed that they shut her up in a coop.

"See what you have brought me to by your greediness," said his poor mother.

Try for Health

229 South Peoria St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 7, 1902.

Eight months ago I was so ill that I was compelled to lie or sit down nearly all the time. My stomach was so weak and upset that I could keep nothing on it and I vomited frequently. I could not urinate without great pain and I coughed so much that my throat and lungs were raw and sore. The doctors pronounced it Bright's disease and others said it was consumption. It mattered little to me what they called it and I had no desire to live. A sister visited me from St. Louis and asked me if I had ever tried Wine of Cardui. I told her I had not and she bought a bottle. I believe that it saved my life. I believe many women could save much suffering if they but knew of its value.

Don't you want freedom from pain? Take Wine of Cardui and make one supreme effort to be well. You do not need to be a weak, helpless sufferer. You can have a woman's health and do a woman's work in life. Why not secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist to-day?

IMPERIALISM.

Joseph Pulitzer Points Out a Danger That Menaces The Republic.

What is imperialism? It is not mere external show, thrones, or crowns, or sceptres. It is the spirit of coercion, of conquest, of arbitrary power, of force, of war, of national aggrandizement, of military self-seeking, of jingo exploitation abroad among weaker peoples, ruled with no regard for equal right in colonies and remote dependencies.

To see imperialism full blown one must go to England. At home English institutions are free. The Cabinet is a committee of Parliament. The King has not a thousandth part of your power and patronage. He could not jump a doctor, even a very skillful and agreeable one—not even Trever, who saved his life—into a major-generalship, or—even a lieutenancy. He cannot appoint a fourth-class postmaster. He has none of the enormous powers over corporations which enable you, first, to make an inquisition into the secrets of every combination of capital; second to smash one such combination as an example, and, third, to send that grand inquisitor Cortelyou, who was your private secretary and later Cabinet member for commerce and corporations, armed with all his deadly secrets, to pass the contribution box among others.

The members of your Cabinet are your clerks, not your masters. You yourself are the actual head of the Government the actual commander-in-chief of the army and navy, the framer of policies, the dispenser of patronage and the arbiter of peace or war. You appoint or control, directly, 200,000 office-holders, most of whom hold their places at your pleasure. You name the judges who interpret the very laws you treat with contempt or flagrantly violate. You dictate to Congress what measures it shall pass and what it shall kill. You would be a very great potentate, even if you observed the constitutional limitations of your office. Probably you exercise more actual personal power than any monarch on the globe.

The King of England, by comparison, is merely a fashion-plate.

But the United Kingdom, with 43,000,000 inhabitants, rules over 300,000,000 people in non-self-governing crown colonies and dependencies. The welfare of one quarter of the population of the globe is absolutely at the mercy of the governing classes of Great Britain. Three hundred million people in India, under the compulsion of a quarter of a million soldiers, live and work to furnish official brains to English younger sons and profit for English capitalists.

But England has no written Constitution. But England has no Declaration of Independence. But England is not based upon the idea of liberty and equality. On the contrary, in England every body is a subject of the King—even dukes. In America we have no subjects—we have no room for either subjects, serfs or slaves. We are freemen. Every citizen is a sovereign—or was, in theory at least. England is based upon the idea of a privilege, of birth, of rank—yes, of lawmakers not elected by the people, not selected for merit or fitness, birth—all ideas odious to Americans, all representing privileged classes, all diametrically opposed to the true Americanism, all antithetic to our own system.

Besides one hour separates England from the Continent of Europe whose 400,000,000 people have always hated her, and would have destroyed her but for her protecting moat of salt water patrolled by a great navy. She depends for life upon the food brought across the ocean, and sea power is the condition of existence of her widely scattered empire.

With our own vast continent to be developed; with political and business corruption gnawing at our national life; with the gravest social and political internal problems pressing for solution; with the foundations of the Constitution undermined by lawless unions on one side and lawless trusts on the other; with law and order and prosperity threatened by labor wars, with the yeast of socialism and anarchy fermenting in the public mind; with nine million negroes to be educated and fitted into some sort of tolerable living relations with their white neighbors, you propose to divert the nation's thought and energy from the duties that crowd upon it at home to a career of rowdy adventure abroad.

TO TOUR THE STATE.

Louisville Times: Gov Beckham will take the stump early this fall, and will make a complete tour of the State in the interest of Parker and Davis and the Democratic nominees for Congress.

This has been announced from Democratic State headquarters, with the additional information that the Governor will make about the same number of speeches this year as he did in his own canvass last fall.

Besides the speakers which the party has within its ranks in the State, speakers from other States will come into Kentucky during the last days of the campaign.

The chief orators for the Republicans will be W. C. Owens and Augustus E. Willson. However, they will do practically all of their speaking in the Fifth district. John W. Yerkes will spend the greater part of his time in the East and does not expect to make but two or three speeches here during the entire campaign.

Tragedy Averted.

"Just in the nick of time our little boy was saved," writes Mrs. W. Watkins of Pleasant City, Ohio. "Pneumonia had played sad havoc with him and a terrible cough set in besides. Doctors treated him, but he grew worse every day. At length we tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and our darling was saved. He's now sound and well." Everybody ought to know, it's the only sure cure for Coughs, Colds and all Lung diseases. Guaranteed by Woods & Orme, Druggists. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

WIFE BEATER FINED.

Louisville Times: I had a caved rib, a sprained ankle, and a black eye," said Mrs. John Niner, on the witness stand in the Police Court this morning, when asked the extent of the injuries inflicted upon her by her husband, in a domestic difficulty Saturday night, Aug. 26th.

Niner took the stand in his own defense and pleaded the mercy of the court, explaining that he was drunk at the time and unaccountable for his actions. He was fined $19 and placed under $500 for six months.

The alleged brutal beating administered to the woman came as the climax to a dance given at the home of her father, Wm Peoples. The dance broke up in a "rough house."

Mrs Niner had hurried to her home when she realized that trouble was about to ensue. Arriving there her husband, she says, accused her of having too much fun with the young dancers and a quarrel ensued.

As a result Niner struck her in the ribs and knocked her down, her ankle being sprained as she fell. He continued the beating until neighbors interfered.
